Background:

The Office of Security Cooperation Iraq (OSC-I) or the NATO Mission to Iraq (NMI) along with Iraq's Ministry of Defense (MoD) and Counter Terrorism Service (ICTS) face a wide array of institutional challenges. Among these challenges is insufficient capacity to develop and operate an effective training and education management system, to include a Professional Military Education (PME) enterprise. A fully developed Iraq PME enterprise should be capable of preparing service members for relevant career milestones and service at progressively higher levels of responsibility. This requires development of effective Iraqi PME schools as well as the capacity to take advantage of PME opportunities to attend US, NATO, or other partners' schools. A well designed and fully functioning PME enterprise is a crucial piece of a broader training and education management system that produces desired effects from the tactical through strategic levels. These include properly trained individuals in fully manned organizations at the unit level all the way to implementing mandates in guidance documents at the strategic level (e.g., National Security Strategy, National Defense Policy and Military Strategy).

The effective efforts of this MoDA position towards MoD ownership of curriculum and instructor development; gap analysis; and needs-based planning/programming is essential to further US and NATO interests in developing Iraqi Institutional Capacity. U.S. Advisor support along these lines will be an excellent opportunity for the U.S. to advance transformation of the Iraqi PME enterprise and training and education management systems to provide more effective professional development for the Iraqi Security Forces.
