Functional Area Description

Upon completion of the Policy and Resourcing (PR) Functional Area Certification, the PR professional will have a broader and deeper understanding of national, combatant command and specific security cooperation policies, strategies, plans, and resourcing activities that advance national security objectives in support of U.S. foreign policy. Specifically, workforce members will identify their roles and responsibilities within the security cooperation enterprise.

How will this prepare you better for your work?

This functional area education teaches PR practitioners how policy, strategy, plans, and resourcing are nested to achieve desirable security cooperation outcomes for the United States. These courses focus not only on processes but use real world examples and case studies to reinforce learning. The PR professional will have a broader and deeper understanding of how security cooperation activities nest within the wider spectrum of strategies and plans.
